

GOMPERS TALKS ABOUT DECISION

Agrees With Shepard's Dissenting
Opinion—Court Modifies
Gould's Degree.

Washington, March 12.—In commenting on the decision of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, whereby the injunction obtained by the Bucks Stove and Range company in Justice Gould's court against the American Federation of Labor, is modified so as to permit free reference to the stove company in the columns of the American Federationist, except by inclusion in the "We Don't Patronize List," President Gompers said:

The dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Shepard is exactly that for which the federation has been all along contending, so far as it refers to the freedom of the press. The right to freely express opinions is a constitutional guaranty. There is nothing libelous in anything the federation has published in connection with this whole case."

The decision was handed down by Justice Robb, and holds that the decree should be modified to the extent that it shall only restrain the defendants from conspiring or combining to boycott the Bucks Stove and Range company, or threatening or declaring any boycott or assisting therein, and from printing the name of the complainant, its business or product in the "We Don't Patronize" or "unfair list."

Justice Van Orsdel concurred fully in the conclusion reached by Justice Robb, but by a different process of reasoning.

The sustaining of such a decree by a court of equity would violate the constitutional rights of the citizen," says Justice Van Orsdel, in referring to Justice Gould's injunction decree. "It would mark the beginning of the era of judicial tyranny by the branch of the government charged with the duty of protecting the citizen in his constitutional or legal rights."

He says further that the clause in the constitution guaranteeing freedom of speech and free press forbids government censorship in all forms. "It would be difficult," he adds, "to conceive of a more effective method of establishing a government censorship than through the writ of injunction."

A partially dissenting opinion was presented by Chief Justice Shepard, who held that the decree should be modified "so as to restrain the acts only by which other persons have been or may be coerced into ceasing from business relations with the Bucks Stove and Range company," but not so as to restrain the publication of the name of that company in the "We Don't Patronize" column of the American Federationist, no matter what the object of such publication may be suspected or believed to be.

FARMERS ENTER PROTEST

Tell Legislators They Received Short
End of Deal.

Columbus, O., March 12.—Hundreds of letters of protest are being received by members of the general assembly from the farmers of the state against the work of the legislature this session. Most of them are of the same tenor, making the direct charge that the body has done nothing to relieve the farmer and everything it could to increase the farmer's taxes.

The principal objection is to the increase of the salaries of the county recorders and the passage of the armeny bill, which puts the burden of the maintenance of the National Guard entirely on the property owner. This is the measure which provides a county levy equal to 10 cents per head for every legal resident of the county.

BRADLEY AND THE PRESIDENT

Are Very Friendly—Has Been Twice at White House at Taft's Request.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Senator William O'Connell Bradley, of Kentucky, and President Taft are very friendly. The Kentuckians who thought the new Senator was going to get a hard slap on the wrist every time he went to the White House have another guess coming.

The Senator has been at the White House several times since March 4th, and twice at the President's request.

Senator Bradley has told Mr. Taft only a few of his repertoire of good stories with the flavor of the Blue Grass soil, and the President holds his sides and laughs and laughs and tells the Senator he must come back right away.

The President and Senator Bradley are to have no trouble. Bradley is to be Senator for six years and he has taken his place with a group of Senators, some of whom are Root, of New York; Hale, of Maine; Penrose, of Pennsylvania; Scott, of West Virginia; Crane, of Massachusetts; Burrows, of Michigan and other old stagers who know the game and who are Republicans from the ground up, and it will not be long until he will have convinced the wayfarer and office-seeker from Kentucky that he is the man to see, and that he is not wearing the badge of a Senator for nothing.

HERBERT KNOX SMITH, WHO LAYS BARE METHODS OF THE TOBACCO TRUST.

Herbert Knox Smith, United States commissioner of corporations, made some startling disclosures regarding the methods of the tobacco trust in his recent report on that organization. He declares that many so called independent concerns engaged in the tobacco business secretly operate under the direct control of the larger company. In concluding his report he says: "Many weaker concerns have been virtually driven out of business or forced to sell out to the combination either by reason of the direct competition of the latter or as an indirect result of the vigorous competition between the combination and larger independent concerns. In the case of the larger and more powerful concerns which it acquired, however, the combination has usually secured control only by paying a high price. The immense profits of the combination have enabled it to keep up this policy."

COMPROMISE
NOW PROPOSED

"Insurgents" Meet Behind Closed
Doors and Claim Ten New Recruits.

Washington, March 12.—For more than three hours the Republican "insurgents" discussed behind closed doors the details of the fight they propose to make next Monday when the Sixty-first congress convenes against the adoption of the rules of the last house to govern it.

The leaders of the movement expressed entire satisfaction with the size of the meeting, claiming that at least ten more members would vote with them against the rules. It is known that much of the time at the meeting was devoted to discussion of a compromise with the organization forces.

The suggestion was made that the "insurgents" enter into a compromise with the regulars whereby a committee would be appointed at the beginning of the special session to revise the rules of the house. Pending the report of the committee the rules of the last house would be enforced.

The sentiment of the meeting was that the speaker should not have the power of appointing the committee, if such a committee compromise was agreed upon.

Those present at the meeting were Representatives Gardiner and Lovering of Massachusetts, Murdock and Madison of Kansas, Hubbard of Iowa, Morse, Cooper, Nelson, Kopp, Cary, Lenroot and Esch of Wisconsin, Miller and Hinshaw of Minnesota, Kinkaid and Gronna of Nebraska, Gronna of North Dakota and Poindexter of Washington.

The lecture, recital and glee club gave an evening's entertainment last night in the Frankfort Opera House, which was quite a social event in the capital.

It was decided by the board that the students of the college be allowed as a body to hold membership in the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association and be allowed to play two games of baseball away from home during the season. Under the direction of Prof. Moore, the Athletic Department has made rapid strides in the last year. The track team will soon take the field with great enthusiasm. POWER IN CONGRESS.

During the more than seven years of the Roosevelt administration, power seemed to be steadily slipping from Congress. The theory of our government is that the President is the executive officer; the Congress, divided into two houses, is the direct representative of the people. But during the last administration the President became the greatest force in American affairs.

And the reasons for this change are easily apparent. The Senate has ceased to a considerable extent as a deliberative body. Its work has been done by a few committees. Aldrich and Hale and their cronies have controlled its action and have advanced or delayed action at their pleasure. It was only by the overwhelming and unmistakable support of Roosevelt by the great mass of the people, irrespective of party, that he succeeded in wrenching a single reform measure from that body. And in nearly every case where such measure became a law it was emanated in some way in the upper House.

The House is in even a worse case than the Senate. It has abdicated its deliberative functions entirely and has placed its entire control in a single man, Speaker Cannon.

The individual Congressman is absolutely powerless unless he be a creature of Cannon and a supporter of his measures and policies. If he introduces a bill which is not considered favorably by the Speaker, that bill is sent by the latter to one of his favorite committees and allowed to slumber in peace. And the Congressman can do nothing.

Suppose for the sake of illustration that the committee by some unheard-of means, reports the bill favorably, how can the Congressman bring the bill to a vote before the House. He can arise in the House and say, "Mr. Speaker, I move a suspension of the rules for the consideration of bill so and so." Mr. Cannon will simply say, "The gentleman is not recognized for that purpose." And that is all there is to it.

The only way a bill can ever come to a vote is for the member to go to Cannon privately some day before the meeting of the House and ask it, and if the Speaker finally decides to let it be passed he will give the member a certain day and on that day, he recognizes him and the bill is passed. The deliberative function of the House of Representatives has been abdicated. And why? Thomas B. Reed who is more responsible than any other man for the origin of the present rules of that body said:

"There are many interests which are concerned to perpetuate the rule of the few. The same may be said of all vested interests and vested wrongs. They are all enlisted on the side of repression. But the great immediate power which has for so many years kept the control in the hands of the few is the combination or concert of old members who, knowing the rules and being skilled in all the arts of killing bills without being caught, and of depriving the community of what it wants while exhibiting zeal the other way, are enabled to govern the House and perpetuate their own rule."

These explain why the people weary of the inaction of Congress, weary of seeing reform measures of all kinds throttled in one of the Houses, rallied with such unanimity to the support of President Roosevelt. The Democrats in Congress upheld his hands to the utmost, the best Republicans joined with them. The end was the wringing of some of the people's demand from a reluctant Congress. Congress has declined in power; the Presidency has advanced. With the coming of a new day among the Representatives the old authority of the two Houses will be restored and they will again be the true representatives of the people.

WILSON STANDS PAT

Refuses to Reopen Bleached Flour Controversy.

Washington, March 12.—A formidable movement, the purpose of which is to induce Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to modify or reverse his recent decision in which he held that flour bleached by nitrogen peroxide is an adulterated product under the food and drug act, is on foot. Hundreds of letters from millers of bleached flour in all parts of the country are being received daily by the secretary asking him to refer his ruling to the referee board of scientific experts for review.

That Secretary Wilson will stand by his decision is indicated by the fact that in his replies to the various communications he declares that he can see no use in referring the question of bleached flour to the referee board.

Chicago, March 12.—All of the criminal prosecutions of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana pending in the northern district of Illinois, with the exception of two cases, have been abandoned by the government as the result of Judge Anderson's decision, it was announced.

It was in evidence that Janer, early in February, brought the child to Baltimore, represented her to be his daughter, and during two nights, one spent in a disreputable house and the other in a boarding house, repeatedly subjected her to most brutal ill treatment.

When sentence was pronounced Janer showed not the slightest emotion. He was taken immediately to the penitentiary in Baltimore.

Miss Ethel Barrymore, beloved everywhere she is known, is to marry. She has withstood the pleadings of so many suitors, has cast aside titles and estates that would have tempted nearly any other girl, until we have come to believe that she would never marry. But the following dispatch confirms the rumor of her engagement:

"Miss Ethel Barrymore confirms the published report of her engagement to Russell Griswold Colt, of Providence, R. I., and while the wedding may take place within the next two weeks, no definite date has been set. This statement was given out Wednesday by Miss Barrymore, through her business manager, Mr. Hyde. The actress is playing at the Hollis Street Theatre in "Lady Frederick."

"Mr. Colt has an office at No. 7 Pine street, New York, and lives at the Yale Club. At Providence, relatives of Mr. Colt said that they will believe the report of the engagement when the marriage takes place."

Cardinal Gibbons has assumed the burden of paying Father Elbert's debts, which, so far as disclosed, amount to about $130,000, exclusive of a church debt of $28,000. The obligations issued to banks and individuals in amounts ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 were all signed by Father Elbert as pastor of St. Catherine's church.

TO DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP

Franz and Smith Will Bowl at Cleveland Tonight.

Cleveland, O., March 12.—The winner of tonight's bowling games to be rolled by Louis Franz, champion of this city, and Jimmy Smith, the best bowler of Greater New York, will be hailed as the kingpins of American bowlers. Tonight's match will be the second half of the home and home series rolled by the two men, the first having been decided in Brooklyn on Feb. 22.

On Washington's birthday Smith ran away from Franz, taking 14 of the 15 games rolled. The result made the Cleveland man's backers shy about boasting their man, but they declare themselves confident that he will make a better showing tonight. The match is for $1,000 a side, the entire amount going to the man winning the majority of the 30 games. The result in Brooklyn gave Smith a big lead for the money.

Cohan Cancels Spring Dates.

New York, March 12.—It was announced here by business associates of George M. WASHINGTON WILL FINISH PLEA TODAY

Cooper Case Not Expected to Reach Jury Before Saturday.

Nashville, Tenn., March 12.—The fourth day of the arguments in the Cooper-Sharp trial for the murder of Former United States Senator E. W. Carmack closed with General Washington of the defense in the middle of his argument, and two more attorneys to follow him. At this rate it is doubtful if the case will go to the jury before next Saturday. General Washington finished his ninth hour of argument when court adjourned, and he announced that he would "conclude some time tomorrow."

He will be followed by Judge Anderson, who is expected to make the main argument for the defense, and Judge McCann will close for the state.

W. H. Washington.

Judge Anderson says he will require about six or eight hours for his speech, while McCann declares that four hours will do him.

General Washington's argument was brilliant in word-painting, metaphors, appeal and invective. He made savage attacks upon the state's counsel, and singled out Attorney General J. B. Garner as his special victim. Garner is reputed to have nearly as fiery a temper as has Washington, so counsel for the state insisted upon Garner's withdrawal from the room during Washington's address. The speaker laid special stress upon the social standing and breeding of the defendants, and declared that men of such families held only in defense of life or honor. His speech was a masterpiece of oratory and had a noticeable effect upon the jury.

The tie will not be run off, but the holders of the trophy for the coming year will be decided by lot tonight.

One serious accident marred the run. Aaron W. Wallace was killed at Fairfield, Conn., by attempting to jump from his carriage, his horse becoming frightened at the automobiles and running away.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson XI.—First Quarter, For March 14, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts ix, 31-43. Memory Verses 40, 41—Golden Text, Acts ix, 34—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

The lesson committee seems to have been led to continue the studies concerning Peter for some weeks yet, reserving the conversion of Saul until we take up the story of the gospel more fully given to the gentiles. We last saw Peter and John in Samaria, working with Philip, and then on their way back to Jerusalem, preaching the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans (viii, 25). Peter went about a good deal, in Jesus' name winning souls and building up the saints, and now we find him with the saints at Lydda. It may help some to be reminded that God calls all true believers saints. See Rom. 1, 7; I Cor. 1, 2 (omit the italics); Eph. 1, 1; Phil. 1, 1; Col. 1, 2, and note the "worst of sinners when they truly receive the Lord Jesus are by His blood equally washed and sanctified and justified (I Cor. vi, 9-11; Heb. x, 10-14). The standing before God in Christ of all the redeemed is the same, for all are members of His body, a part of Himself. Down here in our daily life our walk should correspond with our standing, but the experience of Christians is not always true Christian experience, so there is room for sanctification and growth in grace every day (John xvi, 17; II Pet. iii, 18).

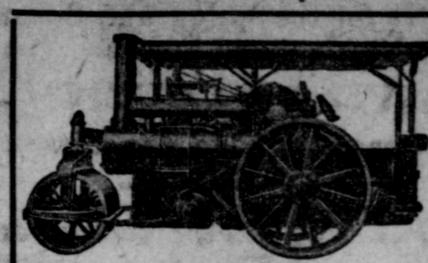

Among the saints at Lydda was one who had been eight years in bed, sick of palsy, but the power of Christ, through Peter, gave him perfect health in a moment, and one result was that the whole town and neighborhood turned to the Lord. We trust that it was with them as with the Thessalonians, who "turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God and to walk for His Son from heaven" (I Thess. 1, 9, 10). This incident and other miracles of healing by the apostles give rise to such questions as, Is the health of the body included in the atonement, and, if so, why are not more believers healed in answer to prayer? It is made very plain that the great atonement of the Lord Jesus includes the body as well as the soul of every true believer, and, more than that, the planet called earth on which we live, and in due time the whole earth, shall be filled with the glory of God and there will be no more curse nor sorrow nor crying nor death on the whole earth (Isa. xi, 9; Rev. xxi, 4; xx, 8). But the creation shall not have the benefit of the atonement till the coming of Christ with his saints, and the saints must wait for their redeemed bodies till the resurrection of the righteous at His coming to the air for His saints. These two events will bring to the saints and to the earth the full benefit of the indescribable sufferings of the Lord Jesus (Rom. viii, 18-23; Phil. iii, 20, 21).

But what about health now? The great thing now is to live in the love of God and the will of God, ceasing all strife about methods of healing or modes of baptism and whole heartedly seeking to hasten His kingdom by giving the gospel to every creature, that His church may be completed and that He may come again. Thus wholly occupied with Him and His affairs we can rely upon Him to include in "all these things" all the health necessary in His service to glorify Him (Matt. vi, 33). The remainder of our lesson refers to a disciple named Tabitha or Dorcas, who lived at Joppa, which was nigh to Lydda (verse 38). She manifested her faith by her works and by her self-denying labors for others. While we are saved wholly through the finished work of the Lord Jesus by faith alone without any works of ours if it is a living, saving faith there will certainly be manifest in our lives the good works prepared beforehand for us to walk in (Rom. vi, 5; xii, 1, 2; Eph. vi, 10; Tit. iii, 5, 8).

This disciple, full of works of faith and labors of love, became sick and died. She departed to be with Christ, which is very far better. She was absent from the body and present with the Lord. She had really gained (Phil. i, 21, 23; II Cor. v, 8). It would be unscriptural to say that she had gone to her reward, for rewards are not given to the righteous at death, but at the coming of Christ, at the judgment seat of Christ, which is for the redeemed only (Rev. xxii, 12; Luke xiv, 14). She was in good health and resting from her labors in the presence of Him whom she so loved. Now, consider the conduct of these other disciples. Peter is sent for, and the weeping widows take pains to show him the coats and garments which Dorcas had made. Peter puts them all out, and in answer to his prayer Dorcas comes back from the spirit world and re-enters the mortal body and is given back to her weeping friends. Well, that certainly proved, as did the healing of Aeneas, that Jesus was still alive, and the very same Jesus as when in His sojourn on earth He healed the sick and raised the dead. The incident was also the means of leading many to believe in the Lord.

But consider whether these weeping disciples were thinking more of Dorcas' welfare or their own when they so desired to have her back on earth, and is not all mourning for those who are with Christ simply an indication of sorrow for ourselves? If to the believer "to die is gain," what was it to Dorcas or Lazarus to return?

GOLFERS ARE WORRIED
OVER AMATEUR RULE

New Definition Adopted by Western Golf Association Is Not Popular.

Who is an amateur in golf? Since the adoption of amendments defining an amateur by the Western Golf association there is general consternation in golfing circles among players who have participated in various forms of sports and games for money considerations. This affects not only men who have officiated as college coaches and referees, but those who have participated in bowling contests, trap shooting events, tennis and other forms of athletic diversions. Even bridge whist and other forms of card games, it is understood, come under the ban of the latest rule adopted by the W. G. A.

While in some respects the rule is generally conceded to be a move in the right direction, considerable criticism has been aroused over the adoption of that particular part of the amendment which reads "or who has been a professional in any other branch of athletics."

This, it is claimed, will work a hardship in many cases, as definitions of an amateur vary to such an extent in different branches of sport. A man may be a professional under the strict interpretation of the rule, and a simon-pure amateur to all intents and purposes under another. It is said that the words "has been a professional" will prove particularly offensive to many, as they will bar many golfers who, so far as golf is concerned, are as truly amateur as players could possibly be. Therefore, it is argued, it hardly seems fair or just that the line should be drawn so hard and fast as to carry out the principle of "once a professional always a professional."

It is not likely that this radical rule will be adopted by the United States Golf association. In the event that it is adopted, however, it will eliminate a number of leading golfers of the east from amateur play. One of the most prominent golfers who would be affected by this rule is John M. Ward, who was formerly a professional baseball player. Mr. Ward now plays golf for recreation and the pure love of the sport.

If this new law is enforced to the letter the field for championship golf tournaments in the west will be sadly depleted. The rule regarding an amateur must of necessity be stricter in one branch of sport than in another, and each sport should be governed according to its needs to keep it clean and pure.

The matter of adopting the amendment regarding amateurs will most likely be brought up at the next meeting of the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. And so much criticism has been aroused over the action of the W. G. A. it is likely that the amendment will be placed on the table to be decided at the annual meeting of the association next year.

Vic Willis Back in Fold.

Victor Willis, the crack pitcher of the Pittsburgh National league club, will again play with that team this year, despite assertions that he will retire from baseball. Willis has been holding out for more money. Several weeks ago Willis received a contract from President Dreyfuss fixing his salary for the coming season at $4,100. He refused to sign. It is said he wants $5,000. Friends of Willis say he would sign for $4,500 and they believe this figure will be secured by the pitcher.

Pietz to Manage Colonels.

The Louisville baseball team has signed "Heinie" Pietz of Cincinnati to manage that club for the coming season. Pietz was a member of the old St. Louis team when Chris Von der Ahe owned the club.

SHIRT WAIST CONCEITS.

Trim and Trig to Fit the Figure the Latest Wrinkle.

Instead of being relegated to the limbo of past fashions, shirt waists have held their own for popularity, a popularity based upon their real usefulness now we see more of them than ever, and they are prettier as well as nattier. There is no bagging in front. The newest waists are made trim and trig and fit almost as closely to the figure as did the tight waists of yore.

There is quite a run on crinkle cloth, cotton, but sometimes mercerized, and these are tailored. Wide or narrow folds are sewed in Gibson style. In all the waists there is the same lining shown for tucks. These may be, as I said, tailored from top to bottom and stitched and pressed, or they may be laid in only to the bust line—narrow or wide. I saw one very pretty waist in a dark linen, also mercerized. This was cut with a Dutch neck, which for the uninformed means square, leaving an open space to be filled in by a guimpe of some kind, but which can be left entirely open for evening or for very hot weather, provided the wearer has a pretty neck. This style of waist has something of the much liked kimono effect in that it is cut in one over the shoulder from the bottom of the front to the back. These narrow plaits reach clear over with two clusters of three in the front. It closes on the left side with eight small buttons. This is a very pretty waist and could be copied in any solid material. The sleeves are only just over the shoulder, leaving the guimpe sleeves below.

Sleeves for shirt waists are very long and narrow. Some waists have a regulation shirt sleeve with cuffs, but most of them are narrow and long and reach down in a point over the back of the hand.

The illustration shows the newest tailored shirt waist, made of crinkle cloth in a pale pastel blue. Two Gibson tucks are laid at the shoulders, while across the front is a loose design done in soutache braid. By the way, this braid is seen on most of the summer suits as well as the waists for it is now that the summer garments are made. The braid is sometimes white on a white or color ground and sometimes matches the color. Collars still reach the ears when desired. Most of the stock collars are very high, and all are separated.

Naturally they wonder what really constitutes team play and hence the reason the above question is so often asked. Team work is nothing more than a perfect understanding between all the members of a club as to what is going to be done on any particular play.

For instance: There is a man on first with but one out. If the base runner decides to try for second he should first impart this information to the batter, so that the man at the plate can in any legitimate way help him reach the base in safety. Or vice versa.

WHAT CONSTITUTES TEAM WORK IN NATIONAL GAME

Nothing More Than Perfect Understanding Between All Members of the Club.

"What constitutes team work?" is a question often asked. The fans are constantly reminded that this feature of a club's play is one of the most important essentials.

Naturally they wonder what really constitutes team play and hence the reason the above question is so often asked. Team work is nothing more than a perfect understanding between all the members of a club as to what is going to be done on any particular play.

For instance: There is a man on first with but one out. If the base runner decides to try for second he should first impart this information to the batter, so that the man at the plate can in any legitimate way help him reach the base in safety. Or vice versa.

This applies to every play a team may make, where there are two or more men connected with the play. We will say that with a man on first the guardian of the sack decides that there is a chance to catch the base runner napping.

The first sacker accordingly signals the catcher to throw down there on the next ball pitched. In order for the backstop to be sure that his end of the play is going to be made right, he must tell the pitcher what he is going to do, so that the box artist can hand the ball so wide of the plate that the batter will not have a chance to hit the ball and thus spoil the attempted play.

When his understanding is not thorough it certainly works havoc with a club's team play. With a man on first and one out, the hit and run play is attempted.

That is, the batter decides on that play and gives the signal. He takes it for granted the man at first is going down on the next ball pitched, and to help him out swings at the ball, no matter where it is.

Instead of the base runner starting for second, he remains glued to the bag simply because he has missed the sign. The man at bat goes through with his end of the play and possibly misses hitting the ball.

A play of this kind may easily lose a club the game, and emphasizes the importance of having an understanding between every member of the club.

DIAMOND GOSSEIP

The White Sox have signed Southpaw Lange, who pitched in the Wisconsin league last year.

Manager Joe Cantillon has decided not to grant the demands of any of his hold-out Washington players.

Kansas City will have outlaw ball.

The Interstate league will place a team there. Jack Sweeney, former Boston National catcher, is president of the club.

Catcher Ritter of Brooklyn will probably land with the Highlanders. He has been turned over to Newark by Brooklyn and it is understood Manager Stallings will swap an infielder for him.

Ernest Courtney, former Highlander and with the Phillies since 1904, has been released to Jersey City.

Fred Burchell of the Red Sox is already at Hot Springs getting into condition.

Noted veterans who have gone back to the minor league this year are Saylor, Schreck, McGinnity, Taylor, Collins, Barry, Coughlin, McGann, Pickering, Needham and Courtney.

THE MISSING LINK

AT LAST FOUND IN FRANCE BY TWO CATHOLIC PRIESTS.

Prof. Marcellin Boule and Prof. Edmond Perrier Assigned Task by Government of Recon- structing It.

It looks as though Darwin's theory of the descent of man from the monkey was at last to be established beyond question, by the discovery of an incomplete skeleton of a very low type of prehistoric man, who had no language and who probably walked on all fours. The discovery was made by two priests in a grotto in the little village of La Chapelle-aux-Saints, near Correze.

The skeleton is the long sought "missing link" or "first man" firmly believed by Prof. Marcellin Boule, who is at the head of the government laboratory of paleontology, and Prof. Edmond Perrier, head of the National Museum of National History, in Paris. It is to these two scientists that the French government has intrusted the important task of reconstructing the "first man" of La Chapelle-aux-Saints, as he was when he lived and fought and died 30 or 40 thousand years ago. This estimate of the period during which the "first man" lived was made by Prof. Boule, who regards it as very conservative.

The fragmentary skeleton was found lying in a shallow trench three yards from the entry to the grotto. The soil at the same level as the skeleton was without remains, while the soil above contained the remains of the rhinoceros, reindeer, hyena and wolf. The skeleton was on its side, with the legs folded toward the body. It appears to have been buried, and beside it was the hind foot of some large bovine, which seems to have been placed there as if for food for the dead. The age of the "first man" at the time of death was probably over 50 years. The thigh bones were curved in like those of the ape, establishing a belief that this member of the human species moved on all fours.

One thing that bridges over the centuries that have passed since the owner of these bones lived is that they show their owner suffered from rheumatism. The remains are certainly those of a man, but they are of the lowest type of fossilized man yet discovered. If the anthropoid apes are placed at one end of the scale and the man at the other, between them comes the pithecanthropus, which is near the former, while the newly found specimen is nearer man without losing touch with the pithecanthropus.

Prof. Boule and Perrier have already been able to ascertain, in a general way, how their "first man" ate and how he lived. In reconstructing him they will also "reconstruct" the animals that he hunted or that hunted him.

He was carnivorous, this ancestor of the human race, for in the grotto where he was found there were the bones of a reindeer and the fossil remains of other animals, all prehistoric, which it may be he had killed and brought to the cave for food in time of stress.

The grotto at La Chapelle-aux-Saints is on private property, and, in the past, any relic hunter who desired to explore the ancient abode of the "first man" has been able to do so after applying for and obtaining a permit. Since the latest discovery, the grotto has been closed to investigators at the suggestion of the government scientists, who propose to make a thorough search of the earliest known abode of man on this earth.

Dignity the Cloak of Timidity.

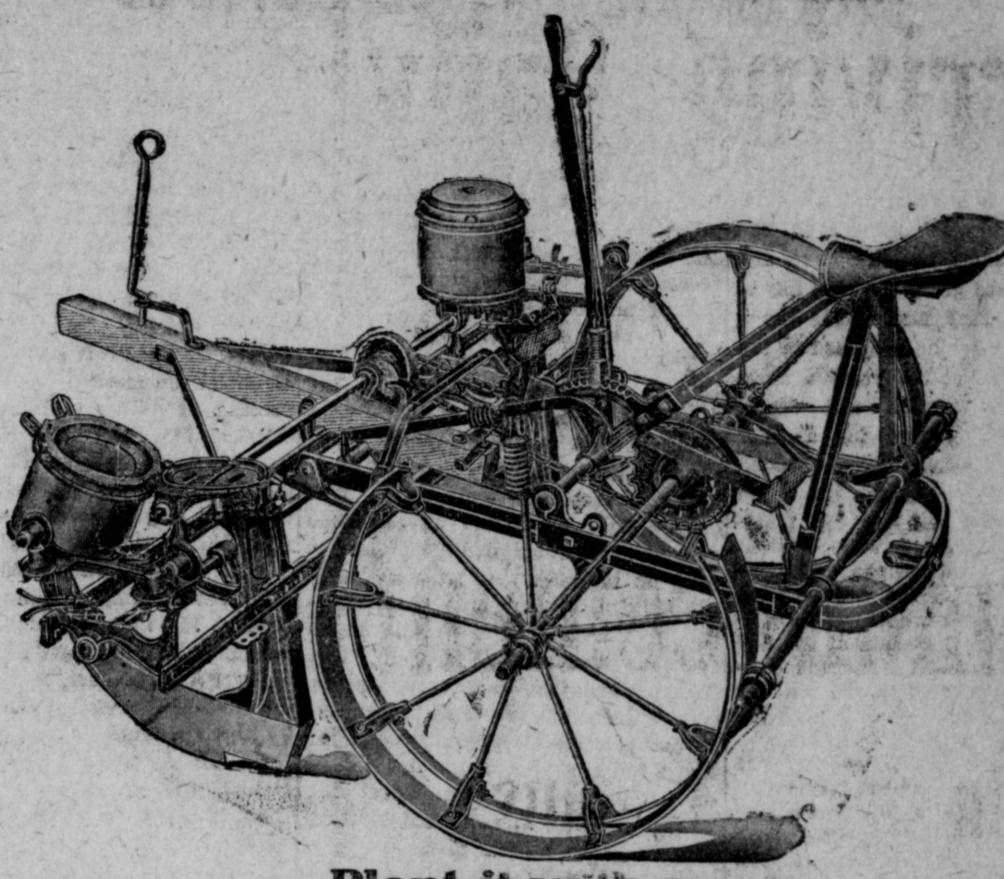

Ceremonies, official and state robes, grave faces, solemn looks, slow motion, involved speech—in short, everything called dignity—is a form of stimulation adopted by those people who are timid at heart. They wish to make others afraid of them or of what they represent. Men of dauntless mind are naturally awe-inspiring, do not stand in need of dignity and ceremonies.—Friedrich Nietzsche.

OPERATORS ARE AGAINST RAISE

Flatly Refuse To Make New Agreement.

MINERS NOT SURPRISED

Owners of Anthracite Mines Offer to Renew Present Wage Schedules For Period of Three Years—Contend That Higher Wages Mean Higher Coal, Which is Impracticable Under Present Industrial Conditions—Hold Further Conference Today.

Philadelphia, March 12.—The anthracite coal operators met the committee of hard coal miners in the Reading Terminal building here and flatly refused to grant the men any of the demands they laid before them, and at the same time proposed to the mine workers that the present working agreement, which will expire March 31, be renewed for another term of three years. This decision was not unexpected by the mine workers, as they had long ago learned that the operators were against making any concessions. Thomas Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declined to comment on the developments of the day beyond stating that he and his committee will meet to discuss the situation. The miners will meet the operators again Friday afternoon.

The contention of the operators is that an acceptance of the terms proposed by the miners will necessitate an advance in the price of coal, which is at the present time impracticable.

The present agreement, made in New York three years ago, when John Mitchell led the miners in the negotiations, is identical with the award of the strike commission made in 1903, after the strike of 1902. Three years ago the miners made numerous demands, but all were rejected, and they accepted the renewal of the strike commission award, which is the same proposition again made by the operators.

So far as could be learned from the miners, a majority of the workers are opposed to a strike, because they feel they are not strong enough entrenched to carry on a campaign of the magnitude of that of 1900 and 1902.

The demands of the miners embrace the negotiation of an agreement between operators and miners by the terms of which all disputes shall be adjusted; the recognition of the United Mine Workers of America by the operators; the adoption of the eight-hour day without reduction in wages; that all coal shall be mined and paid for by the ton of 2,000 pounds; that all employees paid $1.50 or less a day be given a 10 per cent and all employees paid more than $1.50 and less than $2 a day be given a 5 per cent advance, and that all contracts be made for the period of one year.

LEWIS IS EXASPERATED

Objects to Statement as Given Out After Conference.

Philadelphia, March 12.—President Lewis was much exasperated when shown the statement that had been given out. He said the arrangements with the operators was that the secretary of each subcommittee was to act as a press committee and prepare a statement for the public. Secretary George W. Hartlein represented the miners on this committee and George F. Parker of New York acted for the operators.

Mr. Lewis left the meeting before the statement was prepared. When he was shown a copy he expressed great surprise that Hartlein should agree to such a "one-sided statement," and declared that he wanted an explanation from Hartlein as to whether the statement given out is the one agreed to.

STRONG LECTURE AT K. W. C.

Dr. Anderson, of Yale, is Heard With Great Interest By Good Audience.

DAIRYMEN ARE MEETING

Sessions of Two Days is Now On At State University in Lexington.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 12.—The Kentucky Dairy Convention is meeting at the College of Agriculture at State University Friday. The morning session was devoted to the address of welcome, and response, and some other business connected with the meeting. Also the milk and butter contest was discussed.

Prof. A. L. Haecker, Dean of the Dairy Department at the University of Nebraska, will address the meeting in the afternoon on the feeding of dairy cattle.

Milk and Butter Contest.

After a prayer by Rev. Mr. Chandler, Dr. Anderson was introduced by Prof. Moore and discussed the relation of the physical to the moral and mental as impressed upon him by forty years of experience along the line of physical education.

Must Provide Outlet.

The necessity for athletic work in college and university is due to the fact that some outlet must be provided for the super-abundant physical energy of a large body of healthy and vigorous young men. This energy before the day of regulated and properly controlled athletics was used up in ways that were not only not helpful, but, in most cases, positively harmful. The coming in of football, basketball, baseball, and track teams has to a great extent, superseded the older and more barbarous manifestations of force in the shape of brutal hazing, fist fights, rushes, and has raised the moral tone of student life in our universities. The Christian athlete is no longer a rarity and several instances were cited, preeminently that of Tad Jones of Yale.

Necessity of Good Body.

The necessity of a well-kept body for the best results from a good mind were fully impressed and illuminated by many examples from the rich experience of the speaker. The training of the muscles, says Dr. Anderson, is merely the training of the mind for it is in the mind and not in the muscle that we attain muscular skill. A man who has learned to perform a certain task with his right hand can thereafter perform the same task with the left with only a third the amount of effort in learning.
